

WHAT IS COMPOUNDIA?

Tools of the trade – The Mortar and Pestle

No doubt you have seen the Compoundia advertisements in the paper for months, so by now you're probably asking, what is Compoundia? Well, you have waited long enough, here is the inside scoop.

Compoundia is a facility located in Melbourne's NewQuay Docklands, which specialises in tailor-made medications. In a nutshell at Compoundia they believe that everybody is unique and as such there's no reason why their medication shouldn't be. Hence they make medications to individual specifications.

This level of service has never before been seen in pharmacy and opens the door to literally hundreds of ways that Compoundia can improve quality of life for patients. However, to illustrate the point, what follows is a few examples of ways that Compoundia really does make the difference.

Compoundia is a compounding pharmacy that has a great deal of specialised expertise in Bio-Identical Hormone Replacement. In layman's terms, that means supplementing hormone imbalances with the same hormones that our bodies naturally make. Hence Compoundia tailor-makes products with the exact hormones that a person is deficient in, however that's just the beginning.

Pets are unique too, and have specialised needs as far as medications are concerned. Many commercial products are too strong or are available in a form that's unsuitable for a pet. Compoundia also tailor-makes pet medications in a variety of forms and flavours that can best cater for individual pets.

If tricky pets and delicate hormone imbalances are not enough, Compoundia also compounds specialised skin creams for patients with sensitive skin. This kind of service is especially useful for patients who are unable to use proprietary products.

In addition to all of the above, Compoundia is leading the field in putting discontinued products back into the hands of satisfied customers. At some stage everybody suffers the frustration of having "the only product that works" discontinued. However the economic restraints on big manufacturers do not affect Compoundia's ability to produce these products for customers. In some cases they can even produce these products at a lower cost than the original.
